

LEATHER TEXTURIZED BELT

Another Step by Step using the Greenstuff World paints to test the main colors: this time a brown and very worn leather belt.

1. Basecoat with Bestial Brown.

2. First shadow with a dense wash of Choco Brown.

3. First highlight with Leather Brown, covering most of the area (in the picture, left area of the belt only!).

4. Second highlight making a lot of vertical texture lines with Sun Bleached Bone.

5. Third highlight, this time making shorter texture lines with Ivory Tusk.

6. General shadows and tones with a couple of washes with the Pecatum Flesh Ink. This step also gives some smooth to the textures.

7. Another couple of washes with highly diluted diluted Prussian Blue to reinforce the shadows. First shadow with a dense wash of Choco Brown.

8. Finally, outline the edges of the belt with short and thin texture lines, to get more definition of the piece

The following pictures are a big zoom of the finished belt and surrounding elements, and the colors used to highlight and shadow.

Hope you like it! ;)
